INSTANT CLASSIC

I'll admit, the first half of Super Bowl LI was kind of "meh." I wasn't cheering for one team over the other. I just wanted a great game.

The second half, however, was some of the most exciting football I've ever seen. You can't count out greatness. It was the greatest comeback in Super Bowl history. It was the first overtime Super Bowl. More than 30 records were set or tied in the game.

At the age of 39, Tom Brady was as clutch as ever. Greatness is being at your best when it matters most. He now has a record five Super Bowl titles by a quarterback and four MVPs. If the point of the game is to win championships, he's the greatest quarterback of all time.

Some will certainly continue to debate that claim, but what's not up for debate is Brady's insane card prices. His top Rookie Cards (and some parallels) are going for thousands of dollars. We've never seen prices like these for modern football cards. And there are just a handful of vintage football cards valued at the levels we're watching Brady's cards sell for. Even his mid to lower-end RCs are commanding hundreds of dollars. In this issue, we look at how his top cards are soaring after Super Bowl LI, and look at how the hobby is reacting to a few other noteworthy cards tied to the game.

Also this month, we have our annual Movers and Shakers list, tracking and examining the cards over the past 12 months that moved up or down in value the most. The movement on these cards reveals interesting trends for the players, the card brands and how collectors react to what happened on the field.

Speaking of what happens on the field, Panini Instant has been an innovative and successful program in its debut year. The "cards on demand" concept of creating cards that highlight what is actually happening in games each week has been a hit. We caught up with Panini On-Demand Brand Manager David Sharp to talk about the program's success and where it's headed.

Keep collecting!

MOVERS AND SHAKERS

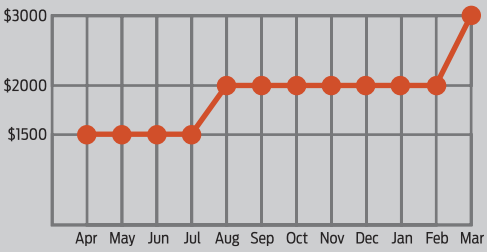
By David Lee

Every year we take a look at some of the cards that moved up or down the most in value over the past 12 months. It's a great time of year to do this because the 2016 product calendar and NFL season are coming to an end. It's always interesting to see how and when collectors react to certain players and cards, and how that correlates with what's happening on the field.

2000 SP Authentic #118 RC Tom Brady

Amazing. For a modern football card (any football card, for that matter), to reach a $3,000 value is a huge deal. It's history. Tom Brady's rise just may be the greatest hobby story of all time. The fact that he has 44 Rookie Cards yet was almost not drafted seems like some eerie prophesy. Leading the bunch is this SP Authentic. Many collectors thought it had topped out at $1,500, especially after secondary market prices didn't jump too much after Brady won his fourth Super Bowl two years ago. Then he was suspended for the first four games this season.

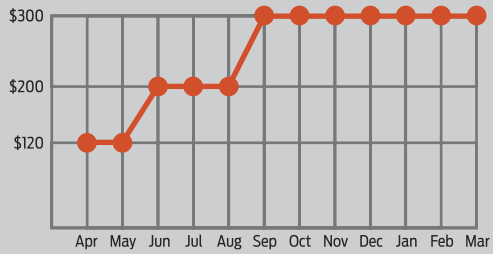
Something surprising happened. This card jumped to $2,000 in our August issue, which released before Brady was able to finally play a game in 2016. When he finally did get in, he went 11-1 as the starter as threw two interceptions all season. Then he moved on to play in his 11th AFC Championship game. As it was clear that Brady was making history again, the market was shelling out $3,000-plus for this card. High-graded copies were commanding $7,000-$8,000. It's not autographed. There's no jersey swatch. It is limited to 1,250 copies and is from an iconic brand known for delivering some of the most valuable RCs in the hobby. With Brady now owning a fifth title, it will be interesting to see how high it reaches this off-season.



2000 Bowman Chrome #236 RC Tom Brady

You can argue that this has been Tom Brady's hottest Rookie Card for the past two years. It certainly made enough Hot Lists, appearing on 10 of the past 12. It even cracked the top 10. With Brady's top Rookie Cards being out of most collectors' price range, it's no surprise that his mid to lower-end cards have gotten a lot more attention since he won his fourth title. This Bowman Chrome has steadily gotten stronger on the market, becoming a collector favorite.

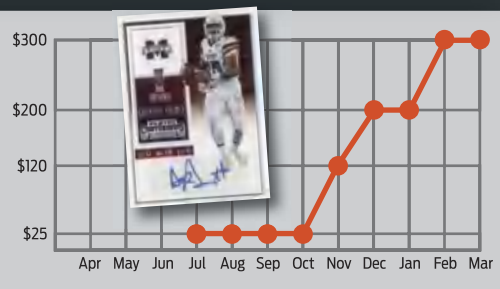
It was priced at $120 last April and May, then jumped to $200 in June. This was when his 2016 season was in question. It then increased by 50 percent to $300 in the September issue. Again, this was before the season even started. It stayed at $300 for the remainder of the fall. In the last month leading up to Brady's record seventh Super Bowl appearance, there have been a few online sales topping $350. High graded versions have brought in $1,200-plus. We're talking about a Bowman Chrome card. No autograph or serial-numbering. Nothing special. It's an anomaly among the football card hobby.



2016 Panini Contenders Draft Picks #125A RC Dak Prescott

The second release of Panini Contenders Draft Picks further proved Panini has a winner with this brand. Styled after the previous year's regular Contenders release, this Draft Picks spinoff gives collectors an early look at the new rookies combined with one of the most popular brands in hobby history. It's no surprise that the autographed Rookie Cards from this product remain some of the most popular cards all year. This Dak Prescott started off at just $25 for the fourth-round draft pick.

This card was first priced in the July issue and stayed at $25 through October. When it became clear that the Cowboys had something special and that Tony Romo wasn't going to return for at least six weeks, this card shot up to $120. Then it quickly went to $200 a month later.



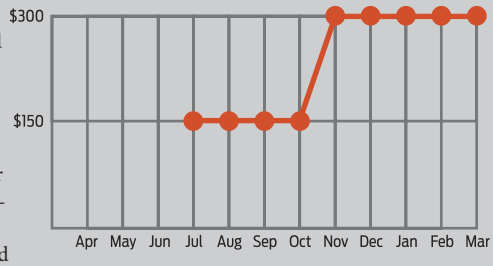
By the February issue, it was up to $300. That's a 1,100 percent increase! Prescott certainly played like a veteran all season, showing that he should have a long, successful career ahead. He finished the season with more than 3,600 passing yards, 23 touchdowns and four interceptions. He also added six rushing scores. That should give collectors confidence to spend this kind of money on his top RCs.

2016 Panini Contenders Draft Picks #105A RC Ezekiel Elliott

Like the Dak Prescott Rookie Card from the same set, this Ezekiel Elliott Contenders Draft Picks was one of the hottest cards of the past year. Being the fourth overall draft pick, he has been one of the most popular rookies from the beginning of the 2016 product calendar.

This card started off at a $150 value. It remained there until the November issue when it doubled to $300. Elliott dominated the rushing game, and was the clear No. 1 running back in the NFL. Playing behind the best offensive line in the game certainly helped.

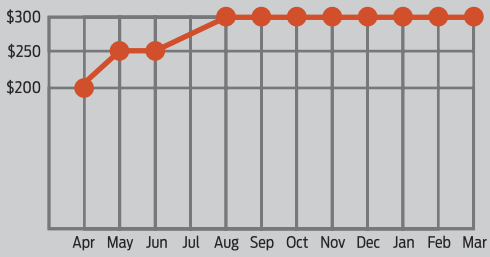
He finished with the third-most rushing yards by a rookie with 1,631, and that includes sitting out the final game of the season in preparation for the playoffs. Elliott had more than a 300-yard lead on the season's second-leading rusher. He averaged 5.1 yards per carry and scored 16 total touchdowns. Factoring in his receiving yards, he was just shy of 2,000 total yards. Of course, the Cowboys having a tremendous season and drafting the two best rookies this year helped the excitement.



2010 Panini Contenders #105 RC Antonio Brown

Antonio Brown is putting together a Hall of Fame career. He was on the cover of our September issue, and this card is a major reason why. We've watched this card go from $40 in value just two years ago to $300 today. While its biggest jumps came before this season, it was clear that it hadn't topped out in price just yet. It appeared on several Hot Lists throughout the year, including some in the top five slots. Brown had a bit of a down year compared to his previous two seasons, but it's clear that collectors are now treating him as one of the elite players in the hobby.

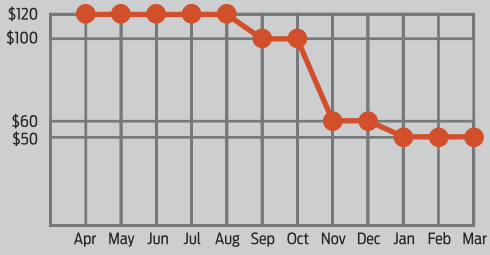
This Contenders RC was $200 a year ago and jumped to $250 in the May issue. Two months later it rose to $300 and has stayed there since. There just aren't many receivers who have Rookie Cards valued at levels like this. The NFL is primarily a quarterback's league first and a running back's league second (see the other cards in this feature for examples). Brown's rise has been impressive to watch, and this card has come out as his top RC to grab.



2014 Panini National Treasures #306 Johnny Manziel JSY AU RC

The fall of Johnny Manziel has been as fast and hard as any player in recent memory. He entered the NFL just two seasons ago with incredible hype that outweighed legitimate concerns. As a Heisman winner and one of the most productive and exciting college quarterbacks in years, Manziel (nicknamed "Johnny Football") was drafted in the first round by the Browns—a team known for a revolving door at quarterback. He ended up starting just eight total games from 2014-2015. After several off-field issues and suspensions, he's no longer with a team.

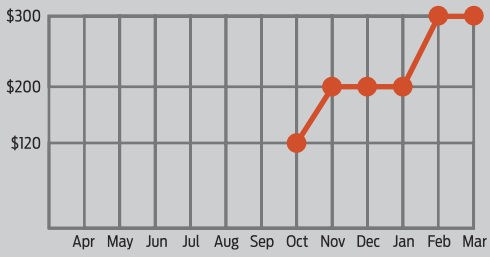
This National Treasures RC was one of Manziel's best. It listed for $250 in our March 2016 issue, then dropped to $120 a month later when it was becoming clear that he was likely not going to play this season. It stayed at $120 through the summer before moving down to $100 in the September issue, then dropping to $60 in November. It dropped again to $50 in January and remains there. That's a $200 loss in value in one year. Still, he will likely always have collecting value being a Heisman winner.



2016 Elite Pen Pals #PPEE Ezekiel Elliott

These Pen Pals cards were signed at the NFLPA Rookie Premiere and put in the return of the Elite brand. So, two strong brands coming together to deliver some of the first autographed cards picturing the rookies in their NFL jerseys was certainly a big hit. This Ezekiel Elliott card appeared at No. 1 on the Hot List in September and then at No. 5 a month later. It didn't make its debut in the Price Guide until October when it started off at $120. By then it was clear that Elliott was going to be a star. The next month it went to $200.

Toward the end of the season it gained even more attention and money in the secondary market, so it moved to $300. In total, that's a 150 percent increase within four months. That's also during the prime window for new product releases. There is also a red ink version of this card.



CARD VALUES RISING AFTER SUPER BOWL LI

By David Lee

WOW! WHAT A WILD, HISTORIC GAME!

People will be talking about Super Bowl LI for long, long time. The Patriots and Falcons set or tied 31 Super Bowl records. While most of the game was one-sided, the Patriots erased a 25-point deficit (by far the biggest comeback in Super Bowl history) to take the game into the first overtime in the Super Bowl's 51-year history.

Tom Brady's second-half and overtime performance was simply legendary. Is he the greatest of all time? I'd love to hear a solid argument against that claim. He's now the first quarterback to win five Super Bowls and start in seven. As MVP of the game, he is now the only player with four Super Bowl MVPs. For the game, he finished with 466 yards, two TDs and one interception. Like we've seen so many times before, he was at his best when it mattered most.

Of course, Brady wasn't the only hero of the night. Patriots running back James White (who is primarily used as a receiver) totaled 139 yards and scored three touchdowns plus a two-point conversion. That was enough to set an individual-player Super Bowl record of 20 points. Many said he deserved the MVP trophy.

The Falcons weren't without their own fantastic performances. Matt Ryan was nearly flawless with 284 yards (12.3 yards per completion) and two touchdowns. Running back Devonta Freeman totaled 121 yards and scored one touchdown. He averaged 9.3 yards per play.

It's always interesting to see how the hobby reacts to a game like this. Here are some of the key cards getting the most action on the market. It seems that Brady's cards are owning a huge chunk of the entire hobby economy. Several of his online card sales had the acronym "G.O.A.T." (Greatest of All Time) in the title.

2000 SP AUTHENTIC #118 TOM BRADY RC

We've covered this card a lot recently in this magazine and on Beckett.com. It deserves the attention because it continues to make history. It rose to $3,000 last month, and was selling for more than $4,000 in a few online auctions leading up to the Super Bowl. On the day of the game, a PSA Gem Mint 10 graded copy ended at $18,100. A PSA 9 went for $6,995 with eBay's Buy It Now option. With just 1,250 copies, this card could rest in many collections for a long time.

2000 SPX #130 TOM BRADY RC

Now this is a card that has just completely shattered its previous high-book value ($500). It actually just recently went up to $2,000. There are 1,350 copies, so it's similar in scarcity to the SP Authentic. The week leading up to the Super Bowl, this card shot up to at least $1,000 in online sales. There were even a handful of sales of 2000 SPx sealed boxes for $700-$800.

2014 PANINI SPECTRA #304 JAMES WHITE AU RC

This is James White's top Rookie Card, listed at just $12. There were not many online sales during the game, but we have to think it will get extra attention this offseason. His other top RCs include 2014 Absolute #158 AU RC and 2014 Panini National Treasures #187 RC. Both are around $10.

2000 PLAYOFF CONTENDERS #144 TOM BRADY AU RC

Brady's other top RC shot up to $3,000 heading in to the game. On the day of the game, one went for $3,700 with eBay's Buy It Now. The day after the game, a BGS 9 commanded $6,495. With an on-card autograph, this card is a close second in price to the SP Authentic, but it certainly brings an additional coveted touch with that signature. Oh, by the way, the Championship Ticket parallel limited to 100… yeah, it's up to $5,000.

2000 BOWMAN CHROME #236 TOM BRADY RC

Tracking the rise of these Brady cards is pretty fun. This Bowman Chrome is in our Movers and Shakers feature as one of the hottest cards of the past year. We've watched it go from $120 just a year ago to $300 recently. It's now at $400. On Super Bowl Sunday it was selling for $400-$600 easily. The Refractor parallel, amazingly, is up to $1,500.

2008 EXQUISITE COLLECTION #168 MATT RYAN JSY AU RC

The day before the Super Bowl, Matt Ryan was named NFL MVP. This card, which is his most expensive, has held a $500 for a while. During and after the Super Bowl, there were a few sales ranging from $400-$521. Ryan is in the prime of his career, so I certainly wouldn't be surprised to watch this card reach three figures at some point.

PANINI SUPER BOWL PRIVATE SIGNINGS

The 2017 Panini Super Bowl Private Signings are promos that were available through Panini's online shop that celebrated Super Bowl LI. Collectors got an exclusive autograph card that's not available anywhere else. They came in a couple different forms.

Autographs come in a couple of different forms. Basic Private Signings cards come with just the signature. Autographed patch cards, which have a different design, are also available. Both current and retired players are included. Base versions for both are done on foil stock. There are also one-of-one foil parallels that have a patterned background.

To get a single-card 2017 Panini Super Bowl Private Signings pack, collectors had to spend $100 or more on select products from the company's online store. Nine products were eligible. An official checklist had not been released when we wrapped up this issue, but check Beckett.com/news for updates.

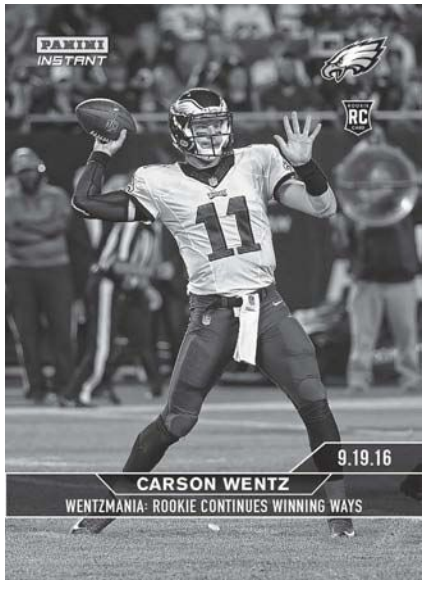
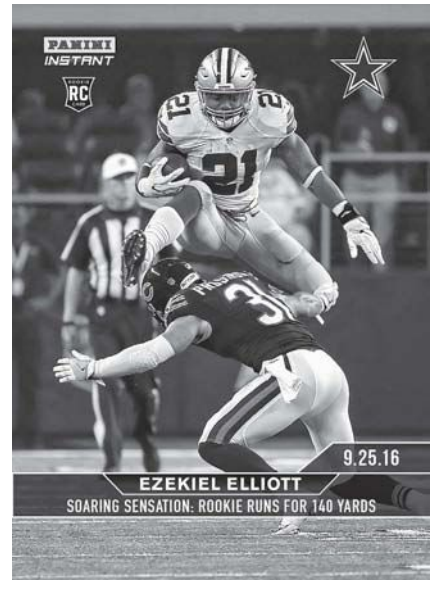
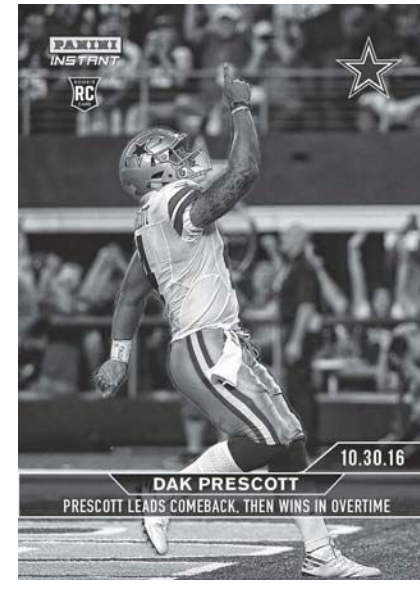
Instant Hit

By David Lee







The concept behind Panini Instant is simple. It gives collectors a fantasy football-like ability to react to the biggest games and performances in the NFL every week.

It's on-demand collecting. And it was widely popular in its debut season.

Every week Panini offers several cards that highlight a particular moment, cool match-ups or a terrific player performance. These cards are printed and available within days. Collectors can get their hands on cards that reflect what's happening in the NFL in almost real time. The photos on the cards were from the featured games or moments. Cards sold out quickly every week on the Panini Instant website. Parallels are available for a particular card, such as Purple (limited to 10), and one-of-one Black.

Individual and team cards were available during the playoffs, letting collectors secure cards as their teams were advancing toward to Super Bowl. The release of new cards each week was tracked on Beckett.com, adding to the growing checklist.

Panini Instant is being expanded to basketball and NASCAR. We caught up with David Sharp, Panini On-Demand Brand Manager, to get his perspective on the success of the program, its challenges, and where he sees it going in the future.

Beckett Football: What goals did Panini have for the program, and did it meet/exceed expectations?

David Sharp: In the first year of our NFL/NFLPA exclusive we wanted to introduce the Panini Instant program to football as a way to engage football fans each week. The intensity of having so many games on a single day can be a challenge. Working with our partners at the NFL and NFLPA through approvals on a quick turn was a learning process, but as the season progressed it got more efficient. Being able to celebrate great performances as they happen is such a great thing to add to the trading card experience and as rookies got their first starts, touchdowns or big performances, it raised the level of excitement.

Early on, Carson Wentz' performance followed by Dak and Zeke's performances throughout the season, and the emergence of other key rookies like Tyreek Hill, Jordan Howard and Malcolm Mitchell. Not to be outdone, we also got to celebrate some great milestones with veterans—whether those were great game performances or historic milestones for players like Drew Brees, Eli Manning and Tom Brady. The first season exceeded our expectations, and we've got lots of things planned through the Playoffs, Super Bowl and beyond.

BF: Why do you think collectors received it so well given all the other product choices they have?

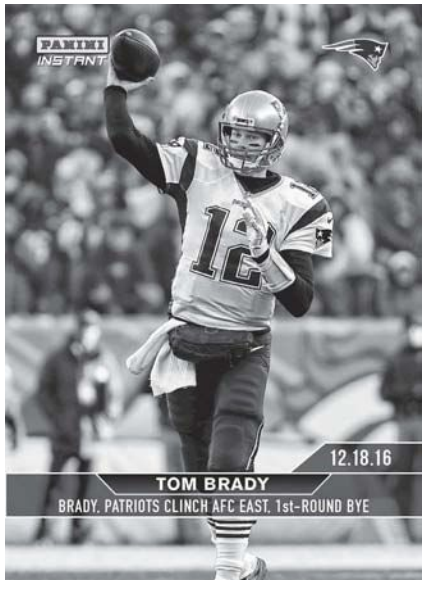
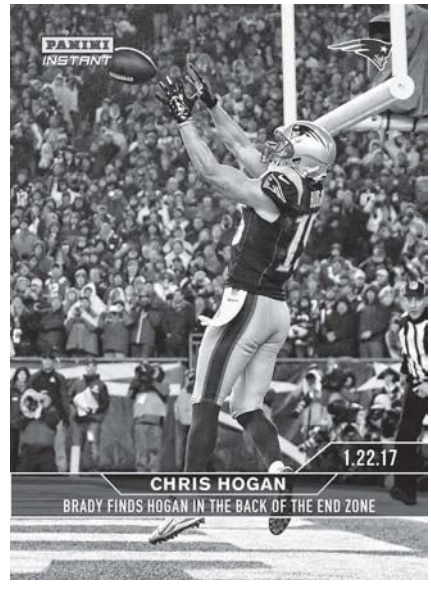
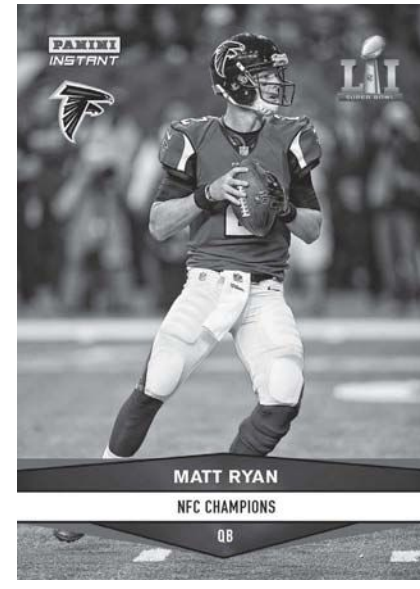
DS: There are so many factors, but I believe that On-Demand cards give collectors a rare opportunity to really remember or capture a key moment or performance from a specific game—maybe from one of their favorite players or a new rookie. Imagine being at an

Just when you thought every hobby innovation had been achieved, Panini Instant delivers something fresh and relevant, yet simple and familiar.







NFL game with your kid and Aaron Rodgers throws a Hail Mary at the end of first half to the back of the end zone to Randall Cobb! That's a pretty amazing thing to see. Now that fan has the ability to memorialize the moment by purchasing a Panini Instant card that celebrates that moment!

That's pretty compelling, and we think a lot more special than buying a t-shirt or hat. I think the other thing we noticed is that when a player gets hot, hobby shops have the opportunity to leverage the platform to get those cards so they have them available in their shops, especially when the player is tied to that marker, or for fans wanting to collect each moment from their favorite team so they can celebrate the season.

BF: That's a great point about having something capturing that moment. So, is there a certain criteria/process used to decide what cards will be created each week?

DS: There really is. Usually the process starts by tuning into all of the games and trying to watch all the football you can for that day until 11:00 p.m. at night! I know, tough right?! From there, you're constantly taking notes throughout the day of all the highlights that you see. Toward the end of the night, you then gather all of the moments that you pick and try to pick the best moments from the day. After that, I look at multiple social media sites and leagues to make sure I didn't miss any key milestones or record breaking performances and then that gets passed through our photo, pre-press and editorial teams to do the work.

BF: Yeah, sounds like a brutal Sunday afternoon! Will we see any form of Panini Instant in the offseason? Maybe for the NFL Draft?

DS: Great question. What I'd say is there are so many football-related events that happen in the offseason that we will look to capitalize on those that make the most sense. So, yes! Stay tuned.

BF: What changes or improvements can you see making for the future?

DS: We're definitely going to take advantage of having the offseason to prepare for a new season. So we will look at lots of things from new designs, concepts, team sets, etc. The Panini Instant and Eternal platforms are so dynamic and based on what's happening in a game—but there's an opportunity for additional planned content. We will also go back and see if there's anything else we can do to gain efficiencies in the process and we do have some other improvements we have planned that we can't share just yet, but we can't wait to introduce them.

WHAT'S HOT?

The hottest rookies, veterans and products in the hobby.

TOP 10 HOTTEST ROOKIES

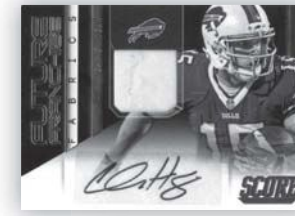
1. Dak Prescott
2. Ezekiel Elliott
3. Carson Wentz
4. Tyreek Hill
5. Joey Bosa
6. Jordan Howard
7. Michael Thomas
8. Sterling Shepard
9. Rob Kelley
10. Derrick Henry

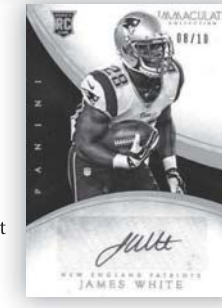
Dak Prescott takes over the top rookie slot from his backfield buddy Ezekiel Elliott this month. Prescott was named NFL Rookie of the Year and AP Offensive Rookie of the Year. When the Offensive ROY award was announced, he and Elliott took the stage together in a show of unity. Zeke's card values are just a tick above Prescott's, but there's no doubt they have been the top two rookies for most of the past year. They played well in the playoff loss to the Packers. Carson Wentz holds the No. 3 spot with continued strong card sales. Tyreek Hill burst onto the scene the second half of the season to finish third among rookies in receptions (61). He turned out to be one of the most dangerous all-around offensive weapons in the NFL, totaling more than 1,800 yards from scrimmage and scoring 12 total touchdowns. He doesn't have many Rookie Cards, but his autographed Panini Contenders RC is his hottest.

Joey Bosa took home Defensive Rookie of the Year. He has moved up and down (and now back up) this list over the season. He led all rookies with 10.5 sacks. Jordan Howard quietly finished second in the league in rushing yards. His Panini Contenders RC and variations top his most-wanted list. Michael Thomas led all rookie receivers with 1,137 yards and nine touchdowns. Washington running back Rob Kelly stays at No. 9. He's another rookie who came on late to catch collectors' attention with around 800 total yards and seven touchdowns. Derrick Henry has the sweetest-looking signature of anyone in this rookie class. He also ended up with a pretty good season, averaging 4.5 yards per carry and totaling more than 600 yards and five touchdowns sharing time with DeMarco Murray.

TOP 10 HOTTEST VETERANS

1. Tom Brady
2. Matt Ryan
3. Jay Ajayi
4. Derek Carr
5. Julio Jones
6. David Johnson
7. Chris Hogan
8. James White
9. Le'Veon Bell
10. Aaron Rodgers





Next month we will likely move the 2016 rookies in with the veterans, and welcome the 2017 rookies. For now, Tom Brady dominates the veterans list and the secondary card market after winning his fifth Super Bowl. His Rookie Cards are reaching some incredible highs. The top ones are bringing in thousands of dollars. Even lower-end RCs are commanding hundreds of dollars. We've never seen this before in the hobby. NFL MVP Matt Ryan follows in the second spot after a terrific Super Bowl performance of his own. His key cards are selling well but nowhere near the bank-breaking prices of Brady's. Jay Ajayi remains in the top part of the list with some eye-popping performances this season. He could be the next up-and-coming running back. Although Derek Carr broke his leg at the end of the season, there's no doubt he solidified himself as one of the star quarterbacks in the league.

Julio Jones moves up after a great postseason and a memorable Super Bowl catch. He also has several key rookie-year autographed cards that are finally on the market. Former Buffalo Bill Chris Hogan is a newcomer to the list thanks to his postseason for the Patriots that caught collectors' attention. He has just 26 cards, but his 2014 Panini Hot Rookies Score Future Franchise Fabrics Autographs was selling for more than high-book value. James White pops on at No. 8 with his three-touchdown Super Bowl performance that had some saying he deserved to be named Super Bowl LI MVP. Most of his cards received up arrows in the Online Price Guide a few days after the game.

TOP 5 HOTTEST PRODUCTS

1. 2016 Panini Contenders
2. 2016 Donruss Optic
3. 2016 Panini Black Gold
4. 2016 Limited
5. 2016 Immaculate Collection

Even though Panini Black Gold and Limited are new releases to this list, they don't make the top two. That's not because they aren't popular products. It's because 2016 Panini Contenders and Donruss Optic are still smokin' hot. The Contenders autographed Rookie Tickets, and their variations and parallels, are all over the secondary market. With surprise rookie Tyreek Hill included, plus hot RCs of Dak Prescott, Ezekiel Elliott and others, this one should stay hot for a while. Donruss Optic attracts a full range of collectors. It delivers hot Rookie Cards, parallels and the popular Rated Rookie Autographs. Coming back to Black Gold, it again delivers on value and unique design. Limited has some quality on-card autographed patch RCs, and includes some retired players we rarely see. Immaculate Collection hangs on at No. 5 with one of the classiest designs this year.

2016 Panini Honors

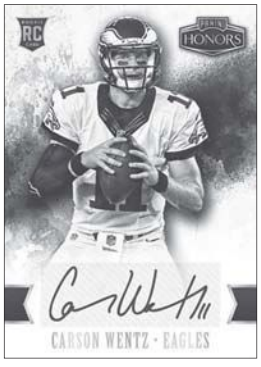
Releases: February 22

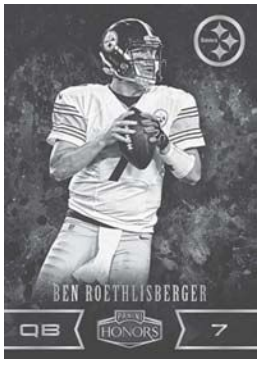
2016 Panini Honors Football is a mix of new cards, old ones and upgraded ones. While it has a standalone base set, the product includes autographs from past products and some that have had autographs added to them. Each box comes with three cards, two of which are signed.

The main 2016 Honors Football set comes in two parts. The base portion has 75 cards, all numbered to 75. Parallels come in four levels and are numbered as low as one copy each. Rookie Autographs add another 25 cards to the checklist. These use stickers for the signatures and have no more than 99 copies each. Rookie Autographs also have four tiers of parallels.

Other autographs come in a variety of forms, all rooted in earlier Panini and Donruss releases. There's a mix of autographed cards from past products. Keys include Contenders Rookie Ticket Autographs of both Peyton Manning and Tom Brady—two of the most valuable football cards ever made. A copy of each 1999 Donruss Elite Passing the Torch Autograph has also been inserted. Recollection Collection autograph cards are old cards that weren't originally signed. These come with on-card signatures and have been given an embossed stamp to help authenticate them. They're also hand-numbered. Memorabilia cards are among the Recollection Collection offerings.

In a lot of ways, the approach sounds similar to the one used for 2015-16 Panini Replay Basketball. It remains to be seen if it's better received this time around. The response to Replay led to Panini creating new cards after its release to help promote the set.



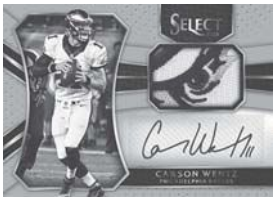


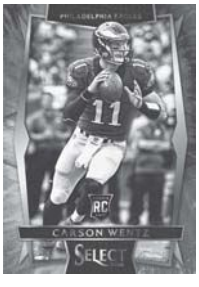
2016 Panini Select

Releases: February 22

2016 Panini Select marks the return of the chromium brand to the gridiron after skipping a year. The trademark tiers Select has adopted in other sports are here along with lots of colorful Prizm parallels. Autographs and memorabilia cards combine to land three per 12-pack hobby box. The full base set has 300 cards. However, it's divided up into three sections: Field Level, Concourse and Premier Level. In other sports, this has meant what's essentially common, uncommon and rare distribution, although Panini has not confirmed it for this product.

While Prizm parallels are plentiful, the colors and patterns are different for each tier. Boxes have 14 total Prizms, three of which are serial numbered. Each hobby box has two autographs and one memorabilia card. That said, not a lot of specifics were detailed by Panini with the initial information. One area that is fleshed out are the Jumbo Rookie Signature Swatches. Base versions are numbered to 99 or less while parallels come in Copper, Purple, Orange, Tie-Dye (/25), Gold (/10) and Black (1/1).





Rookie Autographed Materials are also limited to 99 copies or less. Veterans do have autographs and memorabilia cards, although it looks as though they're in smaller quantities than rookies. According to Panini, more than 50 vets and retired players either have signed cards or relics. Although this is a 2016 product, each box comes with a redemption good for a player from the 2017 rookie class.

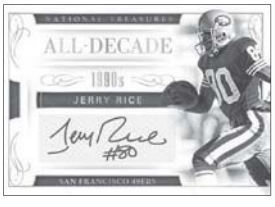
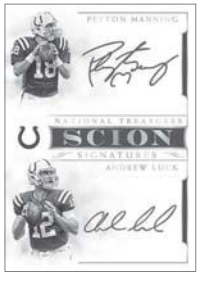
2016 Panini National Treasures

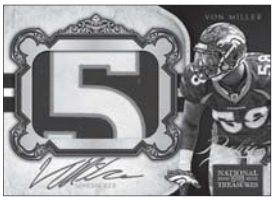
Releases: March 15

This year's Panini National Treasures offering marks the 10th anniversary of the ultra-premium brand. As you'd expect, a lot of the high-end, low-numbered autographs and memorabilia elements return. There are also some nods to the past, and themes around the anniversary. Boxes come with a pair of base or parallel cards on top of three autographs and three memorabilia cards. Rookie Autograph Patch cards are the centerpiece of the National Treasures brand. Some cards are rarer, and some have signatures from all-time greats. Base versions are numbered to 99 and come with an oversized prime swatch from a player-worn jersey. Parallels come in several forms including Jersey Number, Brand Logo and one-of-one NFL Shields.





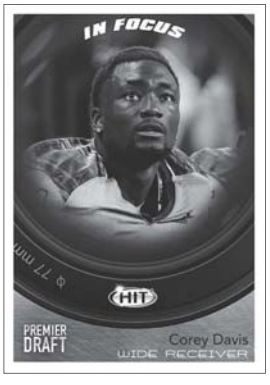
The Rookie Premiere attendees have 10th Anniversary Rookie Autograph Patch cards with an anniversary logo. However, the cards are printed on acetate. Cards come numbered to 10, while NFL Shield parallels are one-of-ones. Also delving into the brand's past are Retro Treasures cards. These recreate some of the brand's most recognizable Rookie Cards. However, they're not just straight-up reprints with a stamp. Rather, these are also printed on acetate. They come in two styles, base versions numbered to 10 and one-of-one Super Prime versions.



Colossal returns as a familiar insert with both signed and unsigned versions. All-Decade Signatures and All-Decade Materials look at top players from various generations. Multi-signed cards come in a couple forms. Scion Signatures (/10 or less) pair a current player with a retired star. Treasured Signatures are done in a booklet format and have eight or 12 signatures. Gridiron Graphs adopt the book format as well. Other memorabilia inserts include Captain Patch, NFL Shields Dual, Colossal Pro Bowl Materials and Treasure Chest Booklets.

2017 SAGE Hit Premier Draft Low Series

Releases: February 24



2017 SAGE Hit Premier Draft Low Series pushes the autographs as far as quantity goes. Each hobby box comes with a total of 15 signed cards. Although not NCAA-licensed, the product's checklist consists of players slated to be rookies in 2017. SAGE has not yet released a confirmed list of those in the set.

Autographs come in a few forms. Among them are Premium Portraits. Numbered to 50 or less, at least one is included in each box. Gold Level Autographs are numbered to 250. One parallel and one insert come in each pack. Among the chase cards are new Peak Performance Platinized inserts. These are done with chromium stock. In addition to base versions, there are signed copies numbered to 50 or less.

Quarterbacks, running backs and wide receivers get their own dedicated insert sets in the form of Field Generals, Ground Attack and Air Force. In Focus offers another look at 2017 prospects. Instant Impact rewinds things a year, spotlighting some of the standouts who emerged in 2016. Autographed versions are also randomly inserted.

The Rookies Blue (/149): Jalen Ramsey
Inducted: Ken Stabler
X-Factor: Carson Wentz

WHAT WE THINK

Let's get something out of the way right now: Optic is incredibly similar to Topps Chrome. And that's a good thing. Topps Chrome was a widely popular brand that had one of the widest reaches of any product in the industry. Optic is certainly following that in this debut release. It's essentially a chromium version of 2016 Donruss. There are 80 cards in a hobby box, and it's a popular retail product. It's been one of the hottest products on the market since its release in early January. The Rated Rookie cards are on fire, and the autographed versions are some of the most popular rookie autograph inserts of the year.

The Gridiron Kings insert is a familiar name that's a fun set to complete. The Sherriff pays tribute to the great Peyton Manning and his record-setting career. Legends of the Fall is a classy nod to some all-time legends. There's just something about the shiny chrome finish that makes an already great-looking set even more attractive. Optic isn't a big-hit product, but you end up with a lot of cards that you're proud to add to your collection.

WHAT WE THINK

Limited returns after a one-year absence. At about $110 per box when it released, Limited is a mid-range product with two autographs and one memorabilia card. There are a lot of on-card autographs, which is always cool to see. Among the on-card signatures are the Rookie Patch Autographs featuring the rookies who attended the Rookie Premiere. The patch isn't as big as we've seen in other products, but we have seen a lot of nice multi-color patches. Rookie Phenoms does bring size with a long vertical swatch. Premium versions have logo patches.

Draft Day Experience is a unique booklet card with a picture of the rookie from draft day on the left side, and a signature with a horizontal jersey swatch on the right panel. You'll probably remember Limited Threads. It's the largest insert with 40 cards. There is a Prime version with some cards limited to as low as 5. Limited has plenty of retired legends that bring some terrific-looking signatures, such as Dan Hampton and Charlie Joyner. There isn't a whole lot of variety in Limited, but there are some great-looking cards.

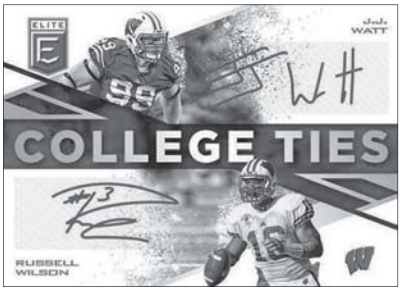
2017 Panini Elite Draft Picks Debuts in March

Panini's first licensed product of the 2017 calendar will be 2017 Panini Elite Draft Picks—a new brand playing off the Elite design. It marks Elite's debut as a collegiate spinoff brand, joining Prizm, Contenders, National Treasures and others. This will also include the first Rookie Cards of the incoming 2017 draft class.

Scheduled to release March 15, each box comes with five packs, and each pack has an autograph. The base set highlights current NFL players in their college uniforms. The set of course will include the top names in the 2017 rookie class. Both base and Draft Picks cards have several levels of parallels. Aspirations come in Purple, Red, Blue, Gold, Emerald and Teal. There are also die-cut Status versions. These also have six levels, each numbered to 99 or less.

Rookies are the primary focus of the product, and Draft Picks Autographs all come numbered to 99 or less, although some parallels will be marked significantly lower than that. Hobby packs have a couple exclusive autographed inserts. College Ties Autographs highlight players from the same school. These could be rookies who played together or it could be a mix of years that include some all-time greats from the same school.

Alma Mater Autographs feature just 15 players. All made major impacts in either college football, the NFL or both. Passing the Torch Autographs is a long-running popular program that will now have a college twist in this product. These will include duel-sided autographs. In addition to the autographs and parallels, Panini Elite Draft Picks boxes also have five regular inserts.



Panini Inks Leonard Fournette to Exclusive Autograph Deal

Leonard Fournette, projected to be one of the top offensive players in the 2017 NFL Draft, has signed an exclusive deal with Panini covering both autographs and memorabilia.

And while the running back will be featured throughout Panini's traditional 2017 football products, it didn't take them long to release their first. Fournette already has cards available through the card maker's online-exclusive Panini Instant program.

Currently, Fournette is projected to be a potential top 10 pick in the upcoming

NFL Draft. In three years at LSU, he racked up more than 3,800 yards to go along with 40 touchdowns, 22 of which came in 2015. Injuries limited Fournette's playing time this season, but his talents still put him in high regard. With the signing, Fournette becomes the first running back to sign an exclusive deal with Panini Authentic, the company's memorabilia arm.

The Panini Instant cards are should have made their way onto the secondary market by the time you read this. The base version has an open-ended print run based on the number of cards ordered. Three autograph cards come numbered to either 25, 7 and 1.
