

20. From Fig. 40-9, we see that the sum of the kinetic and potential energies in that particular finite well is 280 eV. The potential energy is zero in the region $0 < x < L$. If the kinetic energy of the electron is detected while it is in that region (which is the only region where this is likely to happen), we should find $K = 280 \text{ eV}$.